

How to buy my book directly from my publishing company, POLARIS (and some extra info for non-Italian friends that will purchase the book anyway)

Click here: <http://www.polariseditore.it/>.

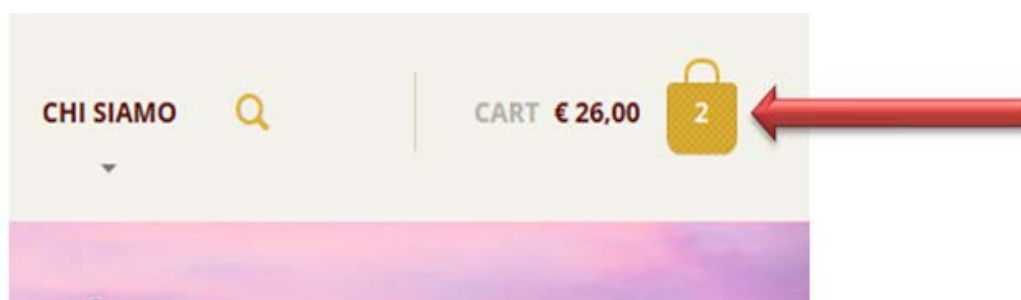

In case I haven't told you yet, the title is "Racconti d'Irlanda", which means "Stories of Ireland" ☺

My book is currently available on the home page, under "IN VETRINA":

At this point, you will have two possibilities:

1. If you move your mouse on the cover, you will this appear: "ACQUISTA - 13,00€". The shopping cart, on the top right, will automatically be modified according to the quantity as shown here:

Please proceed then with the payment, by clicking on "Proceed to check out".

On the checkout page, please remember to apply the promotional code as shown here:

inserisci il giusto codice promo:

spesa minima 10€ = polaris10

2. If you click on the cover of the book, instead, you will be directed to a page with some explanations – in Italian – about the book.

Some of you don't speak Italian, so this is a translation of what's written there:

Ireland can change your life. It does not matter how long you will travel under its immense and unpredictable skies. So much more will be waiting for you in addition to its cliffs facing the ocean. You will be welcomed by a magnificent country that has evolved socially, economically and politically over the last years. Here, the grey limestone of the Burren and the murals in Belfast are all linked together. Here, life and death meet in a pint of stout. Here, pyjamas can be an exotic feature and Benedictine monks love to play rugby. You will feel like a wandering pirate, your eyes facing up the stars through a huge telescope which, almost magically, will appear in a secret garden. The short stories included in this book describe the author's 8-years in Ireland, on “the other” side of the road, driving a rickety black Punto.
